

Figure A5. Histograms of deviation of GLS computed locations to average GPS locations using two methods of light level location estimation. Geographic median particle refers to the calculated most probable movement track, and particle cloud refers to the minimum distance of the iterated particle cloud from the GPS location. Black-browed albatross data collected during the summer solstice in black (top three panels) and wandering albatross data collected during the fall equinox in red (bottom three panels).