Supplementary Figure 3. Correlation between the estimated ADD expected value (μADD) and the interhemispheric transfer time (IHTT) of a human brain in vivo. This negative linear correlation was found to be significant for both the tactile tract (red dots) and the visual tract (blue dots) indicating that the IHTT was shorter along greater ADD.