TP53 Mutations in Brain Tumors

Clinicopathologic Characteristics of Brain Tumors Are Associated with the Presence and Patterns of TP53 Mutations: Evidence from the IARC TP53 Database

N.I. Vavilov Institute of General Genetics, Russian Academy of Sciences, 3 Gubkin Street, Moscow 117971, Russia;

Federal Research Center of Pediatric Hematology, Oncology and Immunology named after Dmitry Rogachev, the Russian Ministry of Health and Social Development, 1 Samora Machel Street, Moscow 117198, Russia

Correspondence: Lyubov E. Salnikova, Institute of General Genetics, Russian Academy of Sciences, 3 Gubkin Street, Moscow 117971, Russia, phone 74991328958, fax 74991328962

E-mail: salnikovalyubov@gmail.com

Supplementary Figure 1. Relative frequency distribution of mutated and wild type TP53 gene variants associated with brain tumor in the different age groups.