Figure 3: Different histogram representation obtained for a given image. The histogram on the left is obtained by assigning each local patch to a single visual word, while the one on the right is obtained by applying the sparse learning formula to select a set of visual words for each patch.