The graphs show the probability mass for the number of differentially expressed (DE) genes in a GO term. The x-axis represents the number of DE genes, while the y-axis shows the probability mass. Two distributions are compared: Null (solid line) and Alternative (dashed line). The graphs illustrate how the probability mass changes with an increase in the number of DE genes.