The graph shows the distribution of regression coefficients with respect to the number of spacers.

- Stable (1269 cases)
- Increase (365 cases)
- Decrease (185 cases)

The x-axis represents the regression coefficient, while the y-axis shows the number of spacers.

The most significant increase is observed around a regression coefficient of 0.