The graphs show relative expression levels normalized to rp49, with WT ovary set as 1. The y-axis represents relative expression levels, and the x-axis represents different genotypes. The graphs are divided into two groups: Ovary and Testis. The graphs indicate significant differences marked with an asterisk (*) and non-significant differences marked with NS.