Diagrams A, A1, B, and C depict the relationship between variables Xn and Xp. Each graph shows a curve with arrows indicating the direction of change. Diagram A1 has an additional red arrow pointing upwards, indicating a positive change. Diagram B shows a downward red arrow, indicating a negative change. Diagram C has a pink square around a point, possibly highlighting a significant change or condition.