Bodily sensations appraised as normal

Bodily sensations appraised as symptoms, i.e. subjective evidence of a health problem

Factors influencing the appraisal:
- Internal frame of reference
- Level of attention to bodily sensations
- Illness perceptions
- Catastrophizing
- Susceptibility