The graph shows the distribution of outbreaks across different categories of healthcare workers. The majority of outbreaks occur in the peripheral ward, with a significant number also related to nurses. Smaller outbreaks are observed in medical and surgical services, midwives, and kitchen staff. The operating theatre has the highest outbreak rate within the peripheral ward category.