With the exception of some variability during the first weeks after transplantation, where tacrolimus levels were highest in the MMF and lowest in the high FK778 group, the mean tacrolimus trough levels were generally similar for all treatment groups. Tacrolimus trough levels showed a gradual decrease in all 4 groups throughout the study.