There is more awareness of bad health effects of secondhand smoke among members.

Members are more interested in quitting because of the group.

Members are more likely to talk to medical providers about quitting because of the group.

There is interest in new “no-tobacco” areas.