The bar chart illustrates the distribution of demographic factors, income, job status, education, others, and residuals in both urban and rural areas. The chart shows that income is the largest component across both areas, followed by demographic factors. The rural area has a higher proportion of residuals compared to the urban area.