The diagram shows the adopted percent sequence identity threshold with corresponding percentage (%) values. The x-axis represents the adopted percent sequence identity threshold, while the y-axis represents the percentage (%). The graph indicates that the majority of threshold values are concentrated between 25% and 30%, with lower frequency at other threshold values.