Figure 2

The graph shows the proportion of biting females per day over a period of 10 days, with three different levels of activity: low, medium, and high. The NS level remains constant throughout the period.