Fig 4. Proportion of children with peripheral asexual parasitemia plotted against time (hours). More children treated with AL showed parasitaemia between 8 and 24 hours post-treatment compared to those treated with AA, although the difference was not statistically significant between the two groups.