Acute poisonings

Less frequent outcomes

Diseases caused by high-level chronic exposures at work

Diseases in the general population caused by lower level chronic exposures

Adverse health effects (developmental effects, organ function impairment)

Physiological changes of uncertain significance, body burden

More frequent outcomes

Manifest health effects

Health effects only observable in specific surveys or investigations

Fraction of disease outcomes traced back to chemicals