The graph shows the efficiency of different catchment populations across various scales. The efficiency is measured along the vertical axis, while the catchment population is shown on the horizontal axis. Three different models are compared: CRS (Constant Returns to Scale), VRS (Variable Returns to Scale), and SE (Scale Efficiency). Each model is represented by a different line or marker, allowing for a clear comparison of efficiency at different population sizes.