The graph shows the normalized transmission bits (Normalized Tx Bits) plotted against handoff overheads (Handoff Overheads(s)). The x-axis represents the handoff overheads in seconds, while the y-axis represents the normalized transmission bits. Different line styles and markers represent various scenarios labeled as OPT, LO, BaDu, Ba, and Du, each indicating different handoff strategies or conditions.