The graph shows the comparison between the Proposed and Conventional methods in terms of NMSE (dB) as a function of $\beta$. The Proposed method generally yields lower NMSE values compared to the Conventional method across different values of $\beta$. The y-axis represents the NMSE in dB, while the x-axis shows the values of $\beta$ ranging from 0.2 to 1.