The graph shows the percentage distribution of population across various provinces in Canada. The provinces are listed in descending order of population: Ontario, British Columbia, Nova Scotia, and so on. Ontario has the highest percentage, followed by British Columbia. The other provinces have significantly lower percentages.