The box plot compares the levels of TBARS (measured in μM) between Control and Asthma groups. The data shows a significant difference (p < 0.001) between the two groups, with the Asthma group having a higher median and range of TBARS levels compared to the Control group.