Principal Component Analysis was carried out on the plasma metabolite concentration data set, permitting for up to 4 different clusters. Plotting the first versus second principal component shows three different clusters (red, green, and blue), with the largest difference separating the red versus the green and blue (i.e. pre treatment HHT versus post-treatment HHT and non-HHT individuals).