Additional Figure 3 - Nucleotide levels profiles as a function of the extracellular glucose from experiments with sinoidal temperature cycles (Δ), linear temperature shifts from 30 °C (○) or 12 °C (X) and from batches at different temperatures (□). The error bars refer to the standard error of two duplicate samples from at least two independent runs of experiments. The different colors indicate the temperature of the sample.