Figure 2 (same patient as fig.1): fresh thrombus at the distal part of the covered stent (arrows), placed to exclude the pseudoaneurysm at the site of renal transplant arterial ligation. This thrombus proved to be infected by mucorales hyphae.