Individual data

Average data and model

Torque (%) vs. EMG activity (%)

- A represents the range of data points in the individual data.
- B indicates the deviation from the average data.
- C shows the model's prediction deviation compared to the average data.

The diagram illustrates the relationship between EMG activity and torque, highlighting the comparison between individual data and average data along with a model prediction.