Imagine that you are watching your private social network on a large public display. The public area is empty.

When the stranger appears …
Your social network is masked.

When the stranger appears …
Your social network is blurred. Your mobile phone vibrates asking you to choose an action: remove, mask, or leave friends on the display.