Figure 2. Correlations of percent density, dense area and non-dense area between cases and sister controls, and cases and unrelated controls.

Unadjusted Pearson correlation coefficient is shown on the raw data. ICC (intra-class correlation coefficient) is calculated after adjusting for age, BMI, menopausal status (pre and post), parity (parous and non-parous), hormone usage (never, ever but not current, and current using) and case control status.