Research Project:
Evaluation of headache service quality

[local collaborator(s)]

Other health-care providers’ questionnaire

Under the auspices of the Global Campaign against Headache, headache centres in Europe and the United States, and the University of Oxford in the UK, are collaborating to define and measure quality of headache care. This is a step towards making improvements in headache care at local, national and international levels.

A multi-dimensional definition of quality has been agreed, along with a set of quality indicators. This study is an evaluation of the quality indicators implemented in specialist headache centres. Health-care providers, patients and administrative staff are asked to complete short questionnaires, and a review of randomly selected patients’ records is conducted.

If the study is successful, it will be followed by studies in other settings, including primary care. Ultimately, the quality indicators, once validated, will be used to improve headache services.

There are five short questionnaires. This one of 13 questions is aimed at health-care providers other than doctors. Please complete it by ticking the relevant box for each question. Once you have done so, please return it to [local collaborator].
