PCA plots of samples within a simple study network before and after batch effect removal. After batch effect removal the samples of the control groups cluster together.

PCA plots of sample within a more complex study network before and after batch effect removal. After batch effect removal the samples of the control groups as well as the samples for disease A cluster together.