Figure S5: Genome-wide principal component analysis (PCA) of the gene expression on duplicate samples showed that the different samples can be distinguished into distinctive groups corresponding with the different samples and the duplicates correlates with each other. The PCA was generated using FactoMineR package from Rcommander v.2.1-7 program in R statistical language and environment 3.1.2.