Oral Health Behaviours Questionnaire to Parents
(Scale author: Adair et al, 2004)

Thank you for agreeing to take part in this dental study designed to give us an understanding of why some children develop tooth decay. We are trying to understand the wide range of dental beliefs and behaviours that families have and develop about their children's teeth. In this questionnaire there are no right or wrong answers – we are just trying to understand what is usual for your family.

This questionnaire is divided into sections. The wording of some questions may seem a little unusual to you because it has been designed to be completed in many different countries with different ways of life.

All information given in this questionnaire will be treated confidentially.

General Information

We would like you to complete this questionnaire by providing us with information about your child.

Child’s name ..........................................................

Child’s date of birth _____dd / _____ mm / _____ yy

Child’s gender: male ☐, female ☐.

The following questions are about the above named child.

Section A

The first set of questions are about visiting the dentist, toothache, and general questions about your child’s baby teeth and dental health.

1. Before today, have you ever taken your child to a dentist?
   - Yes ☐, No ☐.
   - If yes, did the dentist examine your child’s teeth? Yes ☐, No ☐.

2. Has your child ever had toothache in the last year?
   - Yes ☐, No ☐.
   - If yes, how often? once ☐, twice ☐, three times ☐, more ☐.

3. If your child gets toothache would you:
   - give your child painkillers ☐, obtain antibiotics ☐,
   - go to the dentist ☐, go to the doctor ☐,
   - use a herbal remedy ☐, ask for the tooth to be taken out ☐,
   - do nothing, it will get better on its own ☐, consult family ☐,
   - go to chemist ☐, seek other medical care ☐.
The next set of questions examine feelings and attitudes towards tooth decay and toothbrushing. Please tick one box on each line.
