Appendix B: Dementia Care in Hospitals Program Key Communication Strategies

Introduce yourself
- approach the patient from the front
- reduce distractions
- ensure the patient is using aids
- give your name and a brief explanation of who you are and why you are there

Involve carers
- identify relevant carers at admission
- involving carers helps to deliver quality care by providing knowledge and expertise
- carers may be unsure about how things work or whom they should talk to if they have concerns
- improving communication with carers as advocates for patients promotes beneficial outcomes

Make eye contact
- gain the person's attention
- usual visual cues from patient and communicator
- be mindful that eye contact may communicate very different things to people of various cultures

Remain calm and talk in a matter of fact way
- think about how you are presenting yourself
- consider your facial expression, body language, mood, tone and pitch of voice
- your approach can set the tone of the interaction

Keep sentences short and simple
- speak slowly
- use familiar, common words
- express long or complex messages using several shorter, simpler sentences
- pause between sentences

Focus on one instruction at a time
- give one instruction
- allow time for processing
- provide physical prompts / visual supports
- don’t bombard with additional requests or questions

Give time for a response
- be a patient listener
- wait for a response before continuing
- be an active, sensitive and creative listener

Repeat yourself… don’t assume you’ve been understood
- wait for a reply or evidence of comprehension
- repeat or rephrase the message

Do not give too many choices
- use ‘yes/no’ or ‘either/or’ questions
- avoid open-ended questions
