Interview guide for female migrants working in as masseuses

Intro
The purpose of this interview is to help us better understand your experiences locating and accessing primary health services in Norway. “Primary care is the provision of integrated, accessible health care services by clinicians who are responsible for addressing a large majority of personal health care needs, developing a sustained partnership with patients, and practicing in the context of family and community.”(1) One role of primary health care is the initial management of urgent conditions and then referral to a specialist. Primary healthcare providers also give care for preventative and non-urgent conditions.

We will ask some questions about how you access care for your reproductive and sexual health needs. Reproductive health is one’s “physical, mental and social well-being…. relating to the reproductive system”.(2)

We are also interested to learn more about your experience as a migrant in Norway.

Migration trajectory
Where is your hometown? What was your occupation in Thailand? Where were you living before you moved here to Norway?

Work in Norway
In the last 12 months, have you worked as a masseuse in Oslo? Do you have more than one job?

Registered GP Scheme
Do you have a general practitioner in Norway?
➢ If yes – Can you describe how you signed up for this scheme?
➢ If no – Are you aware of the GP scheme?

Access to healthcare (general)
Where do you go for your non-urgent healthcare concerns?

Can you describe your most recent experience accessing healthcare in Norway?

Health system literacy and navigation
When seeking healthcare in Norway have you experienced any challenges (barriers)?
➢ Probes: language, cost, etc.

If you needed to access a healthcare service, where would you seek information?
➢ Probes: Friends, family, websites, organizations, etc.

Situational question (access strategies)
Imagine that you meet Nok, a Thai woman who recently married a Norwegian man and immigrated to Norway 8 months ago. Nok speaks very little Norwegian and has asked you where she can access birth control pills. What would you recommend that she do?
