Title: B-type natriuretic peptide and high sensitive C-reactive protein predict 2-year All Cause Mortality in Chest Pain Patients: A Prospective Observational Study from Salta, Argentina

Version: 2 Date: 7 September 2011

Reviewer: Carlos Henrique Miranda

Reviewer's report:

The authors accepted all my suggestions. The discussion was rewritten and it is focusing on the results of the study. I’m worried about the large number of figures, but I agree that they are important to illustrate the results. The conclusion is adequate to the findings of the study.

Level of interest: An article of importance in its field
