Title: Complementary or alternative? The use of homeopathic products and antibiotics amongst pre-school children

Version: 2 Date: 3 September 2007

Reviewer's report:

I am satisfied with the authors' replies to the referees' points. A few new issues (all but one of them very minor) have emerged, however:

1. I do not see the data in the paper that justify the statement (Abstract and Discussion): "The characteristics of mothers giving homeopathic products to their children are similar to those associated with adult self-administration."

2. Insert the word "school" before "O levels".

3. In Acknowledgements, "Royal London Homeopathic Conference" should read: "Royal London Homoeopathic Hospital Research Conference: 'Improving the Success of Homeopathy 5'".

4. Reference 25 should include full name of journal, as per other references.
