Advice on publication: Accept after discretionary revisions

The paper has been revised extensively. It may be published. However, in the background (Introduction), line 7 (More than 200 cases of intestinal---) may be deleted and modified. This is not true as there are several large reports of tuberculosis which have not been quoted by the authors. What the authors have done is that they have added the number of cases published in references 1-5 and 9. Even in the case report they have quoted other articles such as reference 15, 16, 17, 19,21. I know of several other reports and therefore the number of 200 is a gross underestimate.
