Reviewer’s report

Title: Towards personalised integrated dementia care: a qualitative study into the implementation of different models of casemangement.

Version: 5 Date: 9 December 2013

Reviewer: Chris Fox

Reviewer’s report:

This is a nice consideration of case management models and implementation in the Netherlands. One question is that perhaps there should be a comment on relevance to other healthcare systems.

It would have added to the paper to have service user qualitative input as well as this paper is about providers it appears. However this was not designed to do this.

There are no issues with the qualitative data management,

Level of interest: An article whose findings are important to those with closely related research interests

Quality of written English: Acceptable

Statistical review: Yes, and I have assessed the statistics in my report.

Declaration of competing interests:

None relevant