Reviewer’s report

Title: Trends in antibiotic use among outpatients in New Delhi, India

Version: 2 Date: 22 February 2011

Reviewer: Antonio Clavenna

Reviewer’s report:

The paper was successfully implemented according with the revision suggested by the reviewers.

I have a couple of minor essential revisions:

- page 2, results: the first phrase is not very clear, and I think it should be rewritten. What about "During data collection period, 17995, 9205, and 5922 patients attended private retail pharmacies, public facilities and private clinics, respectively. 39% of the patients ..."

- page 6, the last sentence before sample size sub section is not clear and it should be rewritten

- page 13, raw 15: "penicillins" instead of "pencillins"

Level of interest: An article whose findings are important to those with closely related research interests

Quality of written English: Needs some language corrections before being published

Statistical review: No, the manuscript does not need to be seen by a statistician.
