Reviewer’s report

Title: Perceptions of healthcare professionals regarding the main challenges and barriers to effective hospital infection control in Mongolia: a qualitative study.

Version: 2 Date: 19 June 2012

Reviewer: Jacqueline Randle

Reviewer’s report:

The authors have responded to many of the reviewers' comments and this has certainly made the manuscript a more credible publication. Qualitative methods aim at discovering rich description of people, places and conversations so rich descriptions of the phenomenon are generated. The main focus of a qualitative paper should be the data itself and it is difficult to judge the validity of the authors' efforts as this is a weak aspect of the paper.

Level of interest: An article whose findings are important to those with closely related research interests

Quality of written English: Acceptable

Statistical review: No, the manuscript does not need to be seen by a statistician.

Declaration of competing interests:

I declare that I have no competing interests