Title: Sericin cream reduces pruritis in hemodialysis patients

Version: 2 Date: 31 July 2012

Reviewer: Norihisa Kato

Reviewer's report:

- Authors should explain the preparation method of sericin in detail because the method is an important factor affecting the properties of obtained sericin. At least, the temperature and time of the treatment and the average molecular weight of sericin obtained are necessary. If possible, the amino acid composition also should be described.
- Authors should explain the originality of the findings more clearly.
