Title: Gaps in the evidence for prevention and treatment of maternal anaemia: a review of systematic reviews

Version: 2 Date: 26 March 2012

Reviewer: Valerie Smith

Reviewer’s report:

The authors should be commended for addressing all recommended revisions accurately and in detail. The review is clearly reported and the content now accurately reflects the aim of the review. The quality of the review is significantly improved. It now provides a valuable and clear informative resource for clinical decision-makers on the topic in question. High versus low quality reviews are clearly identified in the text. Limitations, gaps in the evidence-base and areas in need of further research are clearly highlighted. The revised review, in my opinion, meets an acceptable standard for publication and no further revisions are recommended.
