Title: Gorlin syndrome associated with small bowel carcinoma and neuroleiomyomatosis of the gastrointestinal tract: Case report and review of literature

Version: 4 Date: 6 April 2010

Reviewer: Vesna Musani

Reviewer’s report:

I received the corrected manuscript with the cover letter describing the changes made. The authors were not able to screen the tumors for the second mutational hit, so they rewrote parts of the article accordingly. I have no objections to the revised manuscript, but for several spelling and grammatical errors.

I listed some of them below:

Page 3, line 1 – were conducted
Page 3, line 6 – thumb
Page 4, line 19 – H. pylori, biopsy
Page 7, line 4 – exclude
Page 7, line 8 – too low
Page 9, figure 1 – space before ‘.’
Page 9, figure 4 – is would be better: Heterozygous stop codon mutation (c.1136_1137AC>GA; p.Y379X) found in exon 8 is shown.

Level of interest: An article whose findings are important to those with closely related research interests

Quality of written English: Needs some language corrections before being published

Statistical review: No, the manuscript does not need to be seen by a statistician.
