Title: Imatinib-induced liver cirrhosis in a patient with advanced gastrointestinal stroma tumor (GIST)

Reviewer's report:

The case report is interesting, well written and addresses an important clinical issue.

My minor points are: 1. Did the authors determine liver stiffness e.g. by transient elastography? Please clarify. The device should be available in Hannover. 2. If not the authors should anyway discuss the benefits to screen patients under treatment with Imatinib with transient elastography to recognize early the manifestation of cirrhosis.
