Title: Long-lasting response to electrochemotherapy in melanoma patients with cutaneous metastasis.

Reviewer's report:

I have just one important criticism to make: what is the benefit of this treatment for patients? The authors report no survival data and - as regards quality of life - they state that this treatment does not "adversely impact" patients QoL. So why are we doing all this? Is there any basic research reason? the authors do not even mention this aspect. Overall, I believe that the authors missed to define a relevant/strong research question when they started this study/wrote the manuscript. Without addressing this key issue the whole effort is virtually meaningless. Once the authors have clarified this aspect, the article is worth it.
