Title: A Grey Literature Review of Special Events for Promoting Cancer Screenings

Version: 1 Date: 1 April 2014

Reviewer's report:

I think this paper may be of interest of readers. Grey literature may contain useful scientific findings and it should be considered in the production of systematic reviews. Indeed, grey literature is included in Cochrane systematic reviews of health interventions.

However, I think authors should be extended the review to other grey literature sources such as internet sites. They focused their review on two areas: dissertations and scientific conferences and the internet has increasingly become a major source of grey literature (accessible to a wide international audience).
