Reviewer’s report:

Minor essential revisions:
Bacteria are still not written in standard nomenclature. Please refer to my previous comments, point number 4 of 'minor essential revisions'

Page 4, line 91
My previous comment remained uncorrected in this revised manuscript: the 1 year-old affected family member is a cousin, not a sibling according to the family tree.

Level of interest: An article whose findings are important to those with closely related research interests

Quality of written English: Needs some language corrections before being published

Statistical review: No, the manuscript does not need to be seen by a statistician.
