Version: 2 Date: 25 September 2012

Reviewer's report:

As this is a re-review after the authors have responded to reviewer and editor comments, I will simply say that the authors have done a very good job in revising their manuscript. It definitely reads better and they secured the longer-term follow-up data that I had hoped they could. The result is an important contribution to the literature on police as part of the front-line of public mental health care.
