Minor Essential Revisions
The paper needs to be edited in many places for grammar and spelling. For example in the abstract the line "A sample of students was participated in the study" should be "A sample of students participated in the study". In the introduction "That high rate for co-morbid depression and anxiety ranging from 15.9 to 61.9% has also been documented" should read "A high rate of co-morbid depression and anxiety ranging from 15.9 to 61.9% has also been documented".

Again I would encourage the authors to seek assistance from a native english speaking researcher to correct these minor errors.
