Discretionary Revisions

I find that the points I have made in my review have been adequately met by the authors, apart from the minor points of subheadings in the Methods section. I still find that the Methods section could benefit from having more subsections with headings e.g. as "Treatment", "Assessments", etc but that depends more of taste and journal style than anything else. Anyway, if the new subheading "Variables" should be kept, it clearly should be replaced in front of the text referring to the variables of the study.
